

Krishna Savani is Nanyang Assistant Professor of Strategy, Management, and Organisation at Nanyang Business School, Nanyang Technological University. He obtained his PhD in Psychology from Stanford University and has done a Postdoctoral Fellowship at Columbia University. He uses cross-cultural research to provide insights into basic psychological processes. He has conducted extensive research on culture and norms, choice, decision making, lay theories, and policy attitudes. His research has been published in numerous academic journals, including Journal of Personality and Social Psychology, Psychological Science, Journal of Applied Psychology, and Organizational Behavior and Human Decision Processes. He is currently as an incoming Associate Editor at the Journal of Personality and Social Psychology. Dr. Savani has been recognized as a Rising Star by the Association for Psychological Science, a leading association of psychological scientists across the world. He is the first holder of the Nanyang Assistant Professorship in the business school, a university fellowship designed to attract exceptional young academics throughout the world to work at Nanyang Technological University.